A TREATISE ON INSANITY,

IN ITS MEDICAL RELATIONS. By WILLIAM A. HAMMOND, M.D., author of "A Treatise on the Diseases of the Nervous System," etc. 1 vol., 767 pages, 8vo, cloth, $5; in sheep, $6.

In this work the author has not only considered the subject of Insanity, but has prefixed that division of his work with a general view of the mind and the several categories of mental faculties, and a full account of the various causes that exercise an influence over mental derangement, such as habit, age, sex, hereditary tendency, constitution, temperament, instinct, sleep, dreams, and many other factors. To a great extent the work relates to those species of mental derangement which are not seen within asylum walls, and which, therefore, are of special importance to the non-asylum physician. Moreover, it points out the symptoms of Insanity in its first stages, during which there is most hope of successful medical treatment, and before the idea of an asylum has occurred to the patient's friends.

IV.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS AND PHRASES.

Edited by the Rev. H. PERCY SMITH, M.A., of Balliol College, Oxford. 8vo, cloth, $3.

The object of the work is to bring together such words, expressions, quotations, etc., English or other, as are among the more uncommon in current literature, and require, not for the scientific but for the ordinary reader, explanations, for the want of which the meaning of a sentence or a paragraph, even the drift of an argument, is often missed; explanations, moreover, not to be obtained without reference to and perhaps tedious search among a large and varied number of books, many of them not easily accessible.

The Wisdom of Holy Scripture.

With Principal Reference to Sceptical Objections. By Rev. JOHN H. McILVAINE, D.D. I vol., crown 8vo, $2.50.

This strikingly original and suggestive book contains the ripe and scholarly fruits of the author's studies for a lifetime. Dr. McIlvaine, although soundly orthodox, is nevertheless wholly untrammelled in his discussion of some of the most important themes that engage the attention of every man who thinks for himself on religious subjects.

An American Four-in-Hand in Britain.

By ANDREW CARNEGIE. I vol., small 4to, with an artotype illustration, $2.

This book gives a lively account of the author's famous drive with a party of friends on a coach through England and Scotland. The trip was originally suggested by Mr. Black's novel, 'The Strange Adventures of a Phaeton,' and extended from Brighton to Inverness, a distance of more than eight hundred miles, which was accomplished in about seven weeks. Mr. Carnegie is an entertaining and agreeable writer, and this record of his novel journey will doubtless prove to be one of the most successful books of the year.

III.

The Gospel of the Secular Life.

With a Prefatory Essay by the Rev. W. H. FREMANTLE, Canon of Canterbury. I vol., 12mo, $1.

"Very hearty thanks are due to Canon Fremantle for his strong, manly protest against Churchism, Ritualism, and Creedism. He justly contends that the Kingdom of Christ does not consist in a congeries of church organizations; that it does not find its embodiment in assemblies for public worship; that its true influence is diffusive, not inclusive; a spiritual influence permeating the entire life of man, not a selective influence segregating men into ecclesiastical organizations."—British Quarterly Review.

IV.

A NEW POPULAR EDITION.

OLD CREOLE DAYS.

By GEORGE W. CABLE. 16mo, paper, each complete, 30 cents.

PART I. Madame Delphine—Café des Exilés—Belles Demoiselles Plantation.

PART II. "Posson Jone"—Jean-ah Poquelin—"Tite Poulette"—Sieur George—Madame Delicieuse.

"Nothing in recent literature is more enchanting and romantic than his descriptions of Louisiana scenery; and his human figures are drawn in it with equal delicacy and tender refinement. The scenery is real, the people live and laugh, and work and play their little parts in the sunlight, but the genius of the author has cast over the land and people that truest of all lights, the idealizing light of sentiment."—CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER, in the Hartford Courant.

THE fourth annual meeting of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association of the U. S. will be held at Messrs. George A. Leavitt & Co.'s Trade Sales Room, Astor Place, New York, June 6, 1883, at 8 P.M. A full attendance of members is earnestly requested.

The remarkable fact, that we have passed through the past year without a death, should awaken every member to the value of the Association, and make him resolve to add at least one new member before the month has expired.

W. D. MEYERS, Secretary.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROS. have just ready "Mosaics of Bible History," a brief and familiar exposition of biblical history and literature, for Bible students, families, and especially for the young, by Marcius Willson and Robert P. Willson; Mr. Lathrop's charming sketches, "Spanish Vistas," illustrated by C. S. Reinhardt; "The Ladies Lindores," by Mrs. Oliphant; "A Sea Queen," by W. Clarke Russell; and a new edition of W. P. Fetridge's "Guide-book."

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. have three times been compelled to increase their original large edition of Mrs. Burnett's new book, "Through One Administration," to satisfy their orders. They have now the fourth and fifth editions on the press, however, and the work will positively be issued to-day, although it may not be until the middle of next week before all the first demands can be supplied. The N. Y. Tribune, says quite truly, "Such an excitement is perhaps not unexampled, but it is rare in the history of book-publishing."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have just issued "Saul," a drama, by A. S. Logan, and will have ready by the 25th "Fairy Gold," a charming new novel by the author of "A Lesson in Love," and which has been running through Lippincott's Magazine for some time past; a new book by the "Duchess," the title of which will be "Loys Lord Berresford and other Stories;" and "Insects Injurious to Fruit," by Prof. W. Saunders, a well-known entomologist and agriculturist. "Atheism and Theism," by Rev. John G. Wilson, of Philadelphia, will appear this week.

D. APPLETON & Co. have ready to-day "A Treatise on Insanity, in its Medical Relations," by Dr. William A. Hammond; "Man before Metals," by N. Joly, in the International Scientific series; "Medical Ethics and Etiquette," commentaries on the National Code of Ethics, by Dr. Austin Flint; a "Glossary of Terms and Phrases," a collection of such words, expressions, quotations, etc., English or others, as are among the more uncommon in current literature, edited by the Rev. H. Percy Smith; and in the Parchment series, "French Lyrics," selected and annotated by George Saintsbury; and Horace's works with an etching from a design by L. Alma-Tadema.

PORTER & COATES, the authorized publishers, by direct arrangement with the Comte de Paris, have just received the concluding pages of the advanced sheets of the third volume of the "History of the Civil War in America," by the Comte de Paris, and announce that it will be ready in about a month. This volume embraces, without abridgment, the fifth and sixth volumes of the French edition, and covers one of the most interesting as well as anxious periods of the War, describing the operations of the Army of the Potomac in the East, and the Army of the Cumberland and Tennessee in the West, during 1863, when the battles of Dowdall's Tavern, Chancellorsville, and Suffolk were fought on the Rapidan; Port Gibson, Champion's Hill, Vicksburg, and Port Hudson on the Mississippi; and Brandy Station, Oak Hill, and Gettysburg in Pennsylvania.

Brown, Walter Lee. Manual of assaying gold, silver, copper and lead ores. Chic., Jansen, McClurg & Co., 1883. 318 p. il. D. cl., $1.75.

As there is a great and ever-increasing demand for practical books on assaying, this volume has been prepared. It will be found to contain all information necessary to enable any one, with a little practice, to assay ores that are supposed to contain gold, silver, copper or lead. The book is comprised in three divisions. The first describes and illustrates all apparatus required, as sampling and pulverizing implements, balances, furnaces, tools, etc.; it also describes the re-agents, and how to prepare and test them. The whole of the second part is devoted to the assaying of the ores of the four metals mentioned, but principally to those of gold and silver. The third part, or appendix, includes many special processes, as the assay of gold and base bullion, amalgamation, pan and chlorination tests, copper analysis, testing of minerals, etc. For reference, there are here included valuable lists of the minerals of gold, silver, copper and lead, a list of books bearing on geology, mineralogy, metallurgy, assaying, etc., and various useful tables of weights.

Browning, Rob. Selections from the poetry of Robert Browning; with an introduction by R: Grant White. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., [1883]. 22+265 p. por. D. cl., $2.

"The collection is unique, inasmuch as it is a selection from the poet's work made by half-a-dozen of his admirers and students, who each made a list without the knowledge of the other. These lists were compared, and those poems for which there was a unanimous voice, were chosen. Mr. Richard Grant White was appointed arbiter, and after his critical examination the selection as modified was placed in the printer's hands, and is now given to the world. Mr. White declares that it presents 'Browning at his best, and nearly all the best of Browning'; that is, of course, with the exception of his dramatic works, which mutilation would spoil. . . . The reason why but few specimens of Browning's latest writings appear in the book, is partly because they are less suitable for such a collection than his early writings, and 'partly because he seems of late to have become enamored of the least admirable traits of his style, and to roll his sin like a sweet morsel under his tongue.' Mr. White has never read one line of criticism on Browning, he declares, so what he has written emanates from his own soul. The book is beautifully printed."—Boston Herald.

Detroit, W: Graham, printer [Detroit News Co.], 1882. 170 p. por. and il., D. cl., $1.

"The object of this book is to answer the false and slanderous imputations made against the church by Mr. Ingersoll, from a new standpoint, by casting aside all discussion of a scientific or theological nature, taking a broad, common-sense view of the whole subject, basing all that may be said upon facts and reason, and, for the sake of argument, considering the church simply as a human institution."—Introduction.

Griffin, La Roy F. Lecture notes in chemistry: a syllabus of chemistry compiled principally from the manuals of Miller and of Roscoe and Schorlemmer. Phil., Sower, Potts & Co., [1883]. 6+99 p. D. cl., 75 c.

Experience has shown the author of these notes that students attending chemistry lectures use most of their time in the mechanical work of taking notes. Two evils directly result: the attention is turned from the details of the illustrative experiments to the necessary record of the notes; and, at the same time, the imperfections in them mislead when reviewed. To remedy these evils, and thus lighten the student's work, and to supply a want which no publication seems to meet, this manual has been prepared. The subject is treated in four chapters: 1, General principles; 2, Crystallography; 3, Non-metals; 4, Metals.

This is a translation of Prof. Haeckel's interesting "Letters of Indian travel," which appeared in the Rundschau (1882). They are written in a popular style, and are full of an enthusiastic delight and admiration inspired by the wealth and beauty of tropical nature.

Harriman, Walter. Travels and observations in the Orient, and a hasty flight in the countries of Europe. Bost., Lee & Shepard, 1883. 3-360 p. por. D. cl., $2.50.

Ex-Governor Harriman (of New Hampshire) visited the Holy Land in the spring and summer of 1882. His sketches of what he saw and heard there are exceedingly graphic and of profound interest to all persons who share the author's fervor and spirit. But little space in the work is devoted to dry details so often found in the "guide-books"—at the same time the work is an excellent guide for a tourist in the Orient.

Hole, S. Reynolds. A book about roses: how to grow and show them. N. Y., W. S. Gottsberger, 1883. 10+326 p. S. pap., 50 c.

Reprinted from the 7th English edition. A very attractively written series of papers on the growing of roses; the author not only is practical and instructive, but has a very charming literary style. Chapters on: Causes of failure and of success, "Our queen of beauty," position, soils, manures, arrangement, selection, garden roses, concerning rose shows, roses for exhibition, how to show the rose, at a rose show, etc. Three appendixes containing memoranda for the months, selected lists of roses suitable for various purposes, and an alphabetical list of French and English rosarians who have sent out roses of superior merit from the year 1859 to 1875, with the names of the roses and the year of their introduction. Index.

Holt, Emily S. Not for him: the story of a forgotten hero. N. Y., Rob. Carter & Bros., [1883]. 3-224 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25.

A tale of the 13th century; the scene laid chiefly in Edward I.'s court, and the story embellished by a careful study of the manners and customs of the period. The plot turns upon the unhappy marriage of a noble young girl who loves "another." The "forgotten hero" is Edmund, Earl of Cornwall, a cousin of the king.

Jeaffreson, J. Cordy. The real Lord Byron: new views of the poet's life. Bost., James R. Osgood & Co., 1883. 8+556 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Few figures in literature have been the victim of so much misconception and misrepresentation, both by friend and foe, as the subject of this fascinating volume. Without being free from failings, and very serious ones, we have the trustworthy testimony of his life-long friend, John Cam Hobhouse (Lord Broughton), that "he was untainted by any of the baser vices, and his virtues, his good qualities, were all of a high order." He certainly was far from being the human monster that Mrs. Stowe would have us believe, upon the wild story she received from Lady Byron, a myth, apparently, of Lady Byron's imagination, born in the long hours of bitterness and regret which preceded her death.

Mr. Jeaffreson has sifted most carefully the great mass of evidence extant relating to Lord Byron's life, and has had the advantage besides of examining many contemporary letters never before published. While he makes no attempt at all to "whitewash" the poet, nor to extenuate, in any way, his weaknesses and follies, he shows that he had many noble qualities, many winning traits, which claimed the love and admiration of those who knew him best, and that he was in many things calumniated, especially in the story of his marriage, and in the vile fiction so injudiciously given to the world by Mrs. Stowe. Mr. Jeaffreson's logic and eloquence are irresistible. His book is not only remarkably well put together, but fairly carries the reader away with its warmth and earnestness and evident truthfulness. A specially interesting and valuable chapter is the one telling the true story of the destruction of the "Memoirs."

Merely "a speculation," as the title says, there being no facts to sustain the argument, as to whether men subjected to certain conditions may not be immortal—that is, physically immortal. The book is earnestly and intelligently written, and is well worth reading through.

Lanier, Sidney. The English novel and the principle of its development. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1883. 6+293 p. D. cl., $2.

"Mr. Lanier inquires: 'What is that special relation of the novel to modern man, by virtue of which it has become a paramount literary form?' In answering the query, he traces the growth of human personality from Æschylus, through Plato, Socrates, the contemporary Greek mind, through the renaissance, Shakspeare, Richardson and Fielding, down to Dickens and to George Eliot, in whom the numerous threads are gathered into one. The portion of the work directly concerned with the modern novel is very largely devoted to a critical, yet loving, study of the last-named author and her works, accompanied by copious extracts. The book is in all respects fresh and enjoyable, and discusses the latest problems of literature as presented in the writings of Zola and Whitman, and other topics of present interest, that have a bearing upon the more general subject."

The English edition, of which this is a reprint, was published under the title "Orts," the fitness of which was, when too late, doubted by the author himself, and consequently changed by the American publishers.

"Although Prof. Phelps' books were all originally composed with a view to a clerical audience, they are too large in their scope to be confined to any one class of readers. "English style" is especially broad and comprehensive, and it is particularly fascinating from its stories of happy illustrations and its frequent discussions of matters that every one is interested in, but which few are competent to decide for themselves—such as the comparative value and distinguishing excellences of the great dictionaries, the use of certain words and idioms, and a thousand kindred topics. By far the greater part of the volume relates to English style in its widest acceptance, and the entire work is one of the most systematic treatises upon the subject made by an American writer. An appendix contains a catalogue of words and phrases which are chiefly violations of English purity or of precision."

Egypt during the late disturbances is the scene of this novel. It opens at Valetta, Malta, is continued on board the "Syria" on its way to Alexandria, and the chief incidents and major part of the story evolved at Alexandria. The book offers a succinct and very truthful history of the "Egyptian question," from the first mutterings, through the dark days of the early part of 1882, culminating with the bombardment of Alexandria on the 10th of July last. The writer has evidently witnessed the scenes she describes. Her pictures of Egyptian life and scenery and life in the English colony being extremely real and vivid, while her presentation of the frightful scenes of July 11th and 12th in Alexandria is very thrilling and quite correct. The love story is interesting and the characters well drawn.

 From William Wood & Co., 56 and 58 Lafayette Pl., N. Y.:—Catalogue of the medical publications of W. Wood & Co. 84 p. O. pap.
 An excellent catalogue with descriptive notes. Though no particular plan seems to have been observed in the arrangement, a full index to authors and of subjects and titles facilitates the finding of any of their publications. A new feature of a marginal order-list, giving subject of title and price, will be found useful to the bookseller, though it might have been made more so by the addition of the author's name.

The Publishers' Weekly.

MAY 12, 1883.

PUBLISHERS are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries" gratefully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

THE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION OF GRAPHIC ARTS AT VIENNA.

THE object of this International Exhibition is to bring into prominent view the improvement and development of the graphic arts in Europe and the United States, during the second half of the nineteenth century. It will therefore comprise only such works as have been produced since 1850, with a few exceptions, in the case of some special inventions which immediately influenced the productions of the specified period. It is proposed to exhibit: 1, Copper and steel engravings; 2, Etchings; 3, Lithographs; 4, Wood engravings; 5, Drawings and paintings produced with a view to engraving.

In order to demonstrate the influence photography and its allied arts have exercised on artistic graphic reproduction, the exhibition will also comprise heliotypes and illustrated works in which any reproductive graphic art has been employed, except the art of direct photography. The Exhibition will be divided into the collective exhibitions of various States and countries, and individual exhibitions sent by artistic societies and publishers.

The International Exhibition will open on the 15th of September, and will close on the last of October, 1883. The desire to exhibit should be made known before the 15th of July, and goods should be sent before the 15th of August.

The Exhibition will be under the patronage of His Imperial Highness the Archduke Louis Victor, and every arrangement has been made to insure thorough fairness of the awards of merit.

We desire particularly to call the attention of our publishers, engravers, lithographers, etc., to this great opportunity for showing the wonderful progress America has made in graphic art during the last twenty-five years, and we would strongly advise them to lose no time in obtaining space to exhibit their works, which may, without boasting, quietly challenge comparison in some of the finest points of workmanship.

Any information as to the details of the Exhibition and the rules for exhibitors, and advice on the subject of packing, shipping, etc., will be furnished at the office of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

WABASH AVENUE, CHICAGO.

WE present herewith extracts relating to the book trade from a very interesting account, in the Chicago Evening Journal (May 1), of a street which is destined to become as important in the history of trade as the Broadway of New York, Chestnut Street of Philadelphia, and Washington Street of Boston.

Wabash Avenue, in the earlier days of the city's history, was and for a long time remained one of the most exclusive and aristocratic portions of the "South Side." After the fire had swept everything away, and men were beginning to lay out, as it were, the plan of a new metropolis, it was soon perceived that Wabash Avenue was altogether too valuable ground for residence property, and the large wholesale dealers especially looked toward it as the point around which the larger business interests would gather. Nor did they miscalculate, although the process of accretion in this respect was slow. One by one the great wholesale houses of the city began to move thither, and now behold, we have an imperial array of massive business palaces, in which are enthroned the merchant princes of the West. The transformation from the quiet old avenue of homes to the busy scene of commercial activity that is now seen is a very remarkable one, and presents a theme for description and comment that can hardly fail to interest all business men. In going from River to Van Buren Streets the first of old friends we meet are at 87 and 89, who, for more than a third of a century, have maintained a prominent position among the booksellers and publishers of the country. They were the first importers of rare and costly illustrated works ever brought to Chicago, and before the fire this house, which was then engaged in the general book trade, was pronounced the finest in the West. Since then they have relinquished the general trade and now confine themselves exclusively to publishing college text-books, and works of the higher order of literature, including those of a scientific, historical, and philosophical character.

JANSEN, M'CLURG & CO.

Perhaps nothing could more plainly indicate the extent of the change that is taking place—the transforming of Wabash Avenue into a great business street—than the removal of Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co. from their old and well-known locality on State Street to the spacious and imposing building, Nos. 117, 119, and 121 Wabash Avenue, corner of Madison Street.

For many years before the great fire, "Booksellers' Row" on State Street was one of the best-known localities in Chicago—one of the places to which strangers desirous of seeing what was most noteworthy in the city were first taken; and it was there that Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co. laid the foundation for a business astonishing in its magnitude and wonderful in its success, and increasing yearly with a surprising growth. Nearly a year ago this firm decided that they must seek new quarters, and shortly after entered into negotiations for, and took a long lease of, the building where they will hereafter be found. In selecting a new locality, two important considerations had to be recognized: sufficient space, with strong daylight on every floor, and a convenient proximity to their old place of business. To see how admirably both demands are satisfied, one has only to walk through the new store and note the regard for the convenience of customers which the firm have shown, and the increased facilities they now possess for displaying the superb stock which they have so long been noted for carrying. The dimensions of the new building are seventy-two feet on Wabash Avenue by one hundred and fifty feet on Madison Street, with six entire floors, and to reach it from the old locality one has only to go a few feet South on State Street and half a block east on Madison Street. In addition to the two doors on Wabash Avenue a spacious entrance has been introduced on Madison Street, to accommodate such of the customers as would wish to reach the new store from the vicinity of the old location.

"Booksellers, Publishers, and Stationers" appears over the doors of this immense and elegant establishment, and this sign explains in a comprehensive way the nature of the business there conducted. As booksellers, the stock of the firm consists of all that is valuable in English and American publications, the best that is to be found in fine and rare books, costly illustrated and art works; scientific, theological, architectural, agricultural, medical books, etc.; school and college text-books; a large line of Americana; juvenile books in endless variety, etc., etc. Fine importations, direct from the great English and French publishers and dealers, deserve special attention. This distinctive feature of the business is of great importance, as is shown by the frequent visits of a member of the firm to Europe in its interests. As publishers, their list of books is so well known in all parts of the country that it seems needless to designate either authors or titles. As stationers, the firm not only keep in stock all the latest shades and styles for correspondence, weddings, invitations, receptions, etc., but they are also engravers, and in the excellence of their work, as well as the fashion of their goods, they profess to keep abreast of any other house in the country.

The main floor is devoted almost entirely to retail trade, and is a model of a light, airy, and convenient salesroom. But large as is this main room, it is not capacious enough to hold all the retail stock, and so the basement has to accommodate the overflow. On the second floor, which is reached by a wide and conspicuous stairway, are the principal offices of the firm; and on this floor are also samples of the many kinds of goods for the trade. Here the city and country merchants will feel at home, and will find conveniently arranged and tastefully displayed specimens of all the various goods required by their customers. It is safe to say that no larger assortment can be shown anywhere, and no finer or better lighted room in which to make such a display. The third, fourth, and fifth floors are devoted to the storing of stock and kindred purposes.

We have devoted considerable space to this palatial book-store, but not a line more than it deserves. It is, and will be, the pride of the literary people of Chicago, and the place to which visiting strangers will direct their steps. We tender Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co. our heartiest congratulations.

S. A. MAXWELL & CO.'S, 134* AND 136, is one of the large book houses that have erected quarters especially suited to their business. The premises they occupy are an honor to themselves and to Chicago. They are booksellers, stationers, and wall-paper dealers.

PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION,

at 137. We met Mr. C. H. Whiting, who, in response to our question as to the large movement of retail houses to the street, said that it had long been conceded that Wabash Avenue would be the headquarters for religious publication houses, but that nevertheless he thoroughly appreciated the company of retail houses in other lines, as it all tended to improve the street. The Presbyterian Board of Publication enjoys ample facilities for the transaction of business.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY AND AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY (CHICAGO BRANCHES).

While the above-named publication houses cannot be counted among the number of the large houses that have taken up their quarters on Wabash Avenue this spring, the following, taken from the Standard, which was published at the time of their removal, shows to what extent they have aided in building up the street: "Efforts had been made for some time to centralize the religious book-stores of the city, but without effect until it was proposed that jointly the American Tract Society and the American Baptist Publication Society should lease the above building. To simplify matters it was decided that the first-named society should become the lessee, and to Mr. Alexander McConnell, the general agent of that society in Chicago, is due the credit of clustering in this building so many representatives of the publishing business. The lower floor will be occupied by the two above-named societies, our own Publication Society taking the north half, No. 151, and the Tract Society the south half, No. 153. The consummation of the arrangement spoken of gives to Wabash Avenue two elegant book-stores, with large facilities for doing business.

In connection with the Baptist Publication Society is Mr. J. W. Halliday. His specialties are art, party and wedding invitations, visiting cards; he also deals in fine stationery goods.

On the third floor of 151 and 153 Mr. C. M. Barnes, wholesale and retail dealer in school-books, has his headquarters.

the well-known publishers of New York, occupy the entire second floor of 152 and 154, where is located the Western branch of their subscription and educational departments.

old reliable school supply house remains at the old stand, 178 Wabash Avenue. Mr. Olmsted is sole importer of the celebrated W. & A. K.

* We learn that the Colegrove Book Co. have just removed their new store to 135 Wabash Avenue.

Johnston series of maps and charts, published at Edinburgh, Scotland.

GINN, HEATH & CO., NO. 180, publishers of school and college text-books. The firm make a specialty of furnishing electrotypes and stereotype plates for publications. Harold Smith, General Western Agent.

THE ROOT & SONS' MUSIC COMPANY, SHEET-MUSIC, BOOKS, MUSICAL MERCHANDISE, PIANOS AND ORGANS, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

One year ago this house moved from one of the crowded blocks on State Street, and purchased the building which they now occupy, at the corner of Wabash Avenue and Adams Street.

The removal of this well-known company from State Street, "which was then the centre of the music trade," to the quarters which they now occupy, was considered by many a very hazardous venture, but the result of the past year's business fully demonstrates that when the same facilities are offered on Wabash Avenue for shopping that have formerly been found only on State Street, the ladies much prefer the former. This house is entitled to a great deal of credit for directing the attention of retail merchants to this fine thoroughfare, which now is lined from the river to Van Buren Street by many of the finest retail stores in the city.

TOPICAL CUES AND REFERENCES.

Chiefly from the Literary News.

REFERENCES TO SOURCES.

This section is confined to a brief and informal mention of "cues" to topics of general interest. For a more representative and systematic record of bibliographical publications, consult the Library Journal.

GUSTAVE DORÉ—is a topic in Foster's Monthly Reference Lists, April.

ARCTIC ADVENTURE.—The "Current Notes on Reading," in the National Baptist, May 3, give "Some Books on Arctic Adventure."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.—Kennedy's Life of Dr. Holmes (Cassino, $1.50), contains a bibliography of his published works to date, including his contributions to periodical literature.

ASSAYING.—Walter Lee Brown's Manual of Assaying Gold, Silver, Copper and Lead Ores (Jansen, McClurg & Co., $1.75) has a "list of useful books on subjects more or less connected with assaying."

CHRISTIAN HISTORY.—The first volume of Allen's "Christian History in its Three Great Periods," just published in three volumes (Roberts), contains a descriptive list of authorities. Each volume sells separately at $1.25.

WASHINGTON IRVING—is a topic in Foster's Monthly Reference Lists, April, and the subject of "Current Notes on Reading" in the National Baptist, April 12. In the Critic, April 7 and 14, correspondents mention several editions of Irving's works omitted in its Irving number, March 31. (See also P. W., Ap. 7, p. 417.)

AMERICAN BIBLIOGRAPHY.—The American, in a recent issue, and the Critic, April 28, reprint from the minutes of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society, Philadelphia, the remarks of Dr. D. G. Brinton on "Current American Bibliography," under which rather misleading title are mentioned however only recent bibliographies of "Americana," viz., books relating to America.

PERIODICAL LITERATURE.—The Library Journal, April, has begun the issue of a "Co-operative Index to Current Numbers of Leading Periodicals," compiled by a number of librarians, and edited by W. I. Fletcher, the associate editor of Poole's Index.—Prof. Edward Roth, 1135 Pine St., Phila., has undertaken the task of making a complete index to Littell's Living Age, which without doubt contains the richest treasury of English periodical literature. Subscriptions will be received at $3 till June 15, after which date the price will be $4. Numbers 1 and 2, 16 pages each, forming part of the division "Biography" (Abbott—James,) and containing about 3000 separate entries, are ready for delivery.—Mr. W. G. Griswold ("Q. P. Index"), Bangor, Me., has just published a General Index to the Contemporary Review, the Fortnightly Review, and the Nineteenth Century, 36 pages, price $2.50.

DIRECT REFERENCES TO WORKS.

BOOKBINDING.—Arthur Penn contributes to the Critic, April 14, some practical and sensible "Notes on 'Bookbinding.'"

ANIMAL INTELLIGENCE.—Romanes' volume on "Animal Intelligence" "will take rank at once," says Grant Allen in the Academy, "as the standard work on the subject with which it deals; and any future text-book of comparative psychology will necessarily proceed to build upon the solid foundation here laid down."

BIBLE GEOGRAPHY.—"For the English reader the best available Bible geography is," says the S. S. Times, "Carl Ritter's 'Geography of Palestine and the Sinaitic Peninsula,' as translated by the Rev. William L. Gage. It is in four volumes, octavo (Appleton, $14). But a very good compendium of information in this field, and in a wider one also, is Prof. E. P. Barrows' 'Sacred Geography and Antiquities' (American Tract Society, $2). The best compact series of maps, with added notes of explanation, is the Rev. Samuel Clark's 'Bible Atlas,' published by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge (for sale by E. & J. B. Young & Co., $5)."

AMERICAN LITERATURE.—In reply to a request to give a select list of books relating to American literature, the Literary World says: "The subject has not yet received adequate treatment, but work on it is under way. The most comprehensive survey at present is Duyckinck's 'Cyclopædia,' 52 parts, 2 vols., $33; but this is cumbersome, not easily accessible, and hardly includes the later writers. Tyler's 'History' is scholarly and philosophical, but not yet complete, and proceeds slowly. Underwood has a 'Hand-book of American Authors,' but it is a hand-book simply. There are 'Primers' of American Literature by C. F. Richardson and Eugene Lawrence, which give half hour views of the subject. P. M. Irving's 'Life of Irving,' Lounsbury's 'Life of Cooper,' Godwin's 'Life of Bryant,' the current series of American Men of Letters, and lives of Longfellow, Emerson, Holmes, and Whittier, are adjuncts. Mr. Stedman's current articles in the Century will doubtless grow into a book; and they furnish the most seriously critical studies we have yet had. Prof. Nichol's recent 'Sketch' may be accepted, but not without discount."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Industrial News is a monthly periodical published by the Inventors' Institute of Cooper Union. It contains a large amount of information about mechanism, invention, and the chief industries of the country.

The Century Magazine, in discontinuing three of its regular departments, has not reduced the scope of the periodical (as might be inferred from the short statement in a recent number of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY). Recognizing the fact that the daily and weekly press covers the field of current information, it will consider modern society, literature, and invention, especially in their general tendencies and influences, in original articles by the best writers of the day. Its criticisms on the books of importance will be in the shape of signed "Open Letters."

The Continent for May reaches its usual high standard of excellence. "The Right to Bear Arms" by Frank Welling Leach, and "The Children of Shakespeare's Plays," by Amelia E. Barr, are papers of peculiar interest. We take pleasure in calling attention once more to The Continent in its monthly form, which gives 128 pages, and four times in the year 160 pages a month of appropriately illustrated reading matter, and counts among its contributors some of our best known magazine writers. Judge Tourgee's name as editor is guarantee that no dull work will get into its columns.

Worthington has rented the large and handsome store and basement at the corner of Lafayette and Astor Places, and is now busy in removing the large stock of his own publications thereto. As will be seen on another page, Mr. Worthington offers for sale his retail book business at the old stand, corner of Broadway and Ninth St., including a two years' lease of the store.

PHILADELPHIA.—Moss & Co., stationers and blank-book manufacturers, 432 Chestnut Street, have made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors to attorney-at-law J. Warren Coulston. Liabilities amount to about 50,000; assets not yet known.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE English edition of Mr. W. Clark Russell's "Sea Queen" is to be printed from duplicate plates furnished by the Harpers.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have in press a new novel by Mary Agnes Tincker, the author of "Signor Monaldini's Niece," to be entitled "The Jewel in the Lotos." It will be profusely illustrated.

GEORGE ROBERTSON, of Melbourne, has sent us a neatly printed and bound volume of verses by Douglas B. W. Sladen, entitled "Australian Lyrics"—dealing with Australian topics both serious and humorous.

DAVID MCKAY, of Philadelphia, the publisher of Walt Whitman's works, announces for early issue "Walt Whitman: A Study," by Dr. Richard Maurice Bucke, of Toronto. Dr. Bucke is a personal friend of Mr. Whitman, and the book is written with his knowledge and approval.

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co. will issue, in June, a new novel in the Hammock series, by a Chicago young lady. The title is to be "Caleb the Irrepressible," and one of the most conspicuous characters is a colored boy, whose portrait is said to be drawn with a great deal of skill.

OWING to a strike of the compositors for an advance of 10 per cent, the University Press, Cambridge (John Wilson & Son), has come to a standstill, as far as the composing-room is concerned. Both sides remain firm, and the prospects are that many forthcoming books will be seriously delayed.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will soon publish a work of eminent value to the literary man and student in "Folk-Etymology," by the Rev. A. S. Palmer. This volume gives in a compact yet exhaustive and critical fashion the results of Mr. Palmer's study of the influence upon the language of the popular use and misuse of words.

ON May 5, the base-ball teams of Thomas Nelson & Sons and D. Appleton & Co. took the field at the Union Grounds, Brooklyn. The Nelson nine scored a victory—21 against 5—and now challenge any other nine in the book trade. Those desiring to take up the challenge may address J. Armstrong, care of Thomas Nelson & Sons.

A. F. W. LESLIE PUBLISHING CO., 82 and 84 Nassau Street, N. Y., have just ready a timely little volume, entitled "The Brooklyn Bridge." It contains a complete history of the origin and construction of the bridge, illustrated by 11 fine and accurate engravings. The pamphlet is neatly gotten up, printed on heavy book paper, and retails at 10 cents.

THE authorship of "Guerndale," by "J. S. of Dale," the remarkable and successful novel of college life published last fall by the Scribners, is now accredited to Frederick J. Stimson, a graduate of the Harvard class of '76, a practising lawyer in Boston. He was also one of the eleven sophomores who wrote the "Stories for Children" in 1874.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co., we learn from our Boston exchanges, have had suit brought against them for $2000 damages by Mr. E. B. Calendar, author of the "Life of Thaddeus Stevens," published by their predecessors, A. Williams & Co., last spring. The book, it is stated, has not been a success, and plaintiff claims it is owing to the lack of pushing it on the part of the publishers.

S. E. CASSINO & Co. have in preparation the handsome work on "The Manners and Customs of the Ancient Egyptians," by Sir J. Gardner Wilkinson. The plates are being made from new type, and the edition will include all the illustrations, colored and otherwise, of the English edition. The first of the three volumes will be ready in June, the second in August, and the last in October.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. propose to issue, under the editorship of Mr. Scudder, a historical series on "American Commonwealths." These monographs will deal with those States which have had a distinct and powerful influence upon the development of the nation. Both new and old States will be treated under this plan. The first volume of the series will be "Virginia: A History of the People," by John Esten Cooke.

W. B. CLARKE & CARRUTH have just issued an extravaganza of forty pages, gotten up in yellow cloth in imitation of "Mr. Isaacs," which they call "Mr. Jacobs: A Tale of the Drummer, the Reporter, and the Prestidigitateur." Although the title-page does not bear the author's name, he is generally supposed to be the editor of a Boston Sunday paper, to whom is also attributed "Patty's Perversities," one of the Round-Robin series.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. announce a novel by a young gentleman of Commonwealth Ave., well known in the best circles of Boston society, where he has laid the scene of his book, to be called "Mr. and Mrs. Morton." The new candidate for literary honors has bound his publishers to strict secrecy, but it is doubtful if he can long conceal his identity, when curiosity is once aroused by his clever characterization of the real life "at the Hub."

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. will publish immediately "The Reformation in Sweden, its Rise, Progress, and Crisis; and its Triumph under Charles IX," by Dr. C. M. Butler, Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the Divinity School of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Philadelphia. They have in preparation a guide to the study of the chronology, harmony, and purpose of the gospels, entitled "Outlines of the Life of Christ," by Dr. Eustace R. Conder. The volume will contain a map of the Holy Land, by Captain Conder, of the "Palestine Exploration Fund."

J. W. BOUTON will be the American publisher of M. Louis Gonsse's "L'Art Japonais," announced by Quantin in Paris. This important work, undertaken in conjunction with a native expert, promises to relate the history of Japanese art in all its branches as it has never been told before, with fulness and accuracy, abundant biography, and some thousand illustrations of a high order, produced by a great variety of processes, including etching, heliogravure, and chromo-lithography. The edition will be limited to 1400 numbered copies, in two grades.

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN & Co. will publish on the 15th inst. an interesting volume on "Modern Missions," by Robert Young, assistant secretary to the Foreign Missions Committee of the Free Church of Scotland. The work gives special prominence to the earlier history of Protestant missions, and describes graphically their trials and triumphs. It is fully illustrated with engravings and map, and has an introduction by Rev. Dr. James H. Wilson. On the same day may be expected the first volumes in the Heart Chords series—a collection of volumes having for their object the "stimulating, guiding, and strengthening of the Christian life."

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. have just ready a book that will be widely read on both sides of the Atlantic, a new biography by John Cordy Jeaffreson, which he calls "The Real Lord Byron," and in which he contradicts or affirms, on "unimpeachable testimony," the various theories thus far propagated by the biographers of Byron. They have also just issued "A Walk in Hellas," by Denton J. Snider, in which he describes a foot-tour in 1879 through the cities, villages, and rural districts of Greece in the manner of an eloquent, enthusiastic scholar, who cannot fail to make charming reading of the beautifully pictured life of modern Greece. A small edition of the work, printed for private circulation, has already been noticed in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY Record of new Publication, February 3, 1883. A new edition of Mrs. Richard S. Greenough's "Mary Magdalene" is also promised, the first American edition of this poem having long been out of print.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready a neat handy edition of G. W. Cable's fascinating stories, "Madame Delphine," "Café des Exiles," etc., which they issue in two parts under the general title "Old Creole Days." The volumes are bound in paper covers which bear the neat stamp so much admired when first used on the cloth edition of "Madame Delphine." They have also published this week a strikingly original and suggestive book, entitled "The Wisdom of Holy Scripture, with Principal Reference to Skeptical Objections," by the Rev. Dr. John H. McIlvaine; "The Gospel of the Secular Life," with a prefatory essay, by the Rev. W. H. Fremantle—a strong, manly protest against churchism, ritualism, and creedism; and "An American Four-in-hand in Britain," by Andrew Carnegie, a lively account of the author's famous drive with a party of friends on a coach through England and Scotland. Mr. Carnegie, although he was born in America and has lived and earned his great wealth here, is a subject of Queen Victoria, and is shortly going into Parliament.

R. WORTHINGTON will issue at once "An Abridged History of England, and Condensed Chronology from the Time of the Ancient Britons to the Reign of Queen Victoria," compiled by Archibald Hamilton McCalman. The volume was prepared especially to meet the wants of business men, and is intended by the author to "serve as an index, and perhaps lead to more extensive reading on the subject." With each king a brief history of the reign is presented, with the names of contemporary rulers. The sources of origin of the various families who have ruled over England, as the Plantagenets, Tudors, Stuarts, and Brunswicks, are successively presented. Coming down to 1880, the Victorian era is quite exhaustively treated. In an appendix is given an account of England in the 19th century, with details of population, and a good insight of the political institutions and method of government. There are also added a complete list of the peerage creation, precedence, rank, family name and heir of each peer in the three kingdoms; the British empire and national debt; genealogical tables, etc. The volume has also three fine maps and a portrait of Queen Victoria.

MOSES KING, Cambridge, Mass., has in press the "Dictionary of Boston," containing 550 solid pages, printed on fine paper. For three and a half years Mr. Edwin M. Bacon of the Boston Daily Advertiser, has devoted the spare moments of his busy life to this entirely original work, which has a sterling literary merit seldom found in publications of its class. More than fifteen hundred topics are treated of, in a manner as entertaining as instructive. The author combines in rare manner literary taste, perception of subjects of contemporary interest, and the best qualities of the historian and antiquary. The book is full of life and color and has a valuable historical introduction by the Rev. Dr. George E. Ellis. It will be of interest to all cultivated people, as it contains, in concise, practical shape, much information on the various "isms" which originated in Boston and had so telling an effect on the education of the present generation. Unitarianism, Trinitarianism, Congregationalism, Abolitionism, Woman Suffragism, etc., all had their first foothold in Boston, and all form topics for interesting chapters. An excellent map accompanies the book, which has the great merit, so exceptional in guide-books, that it does not contain a line written for pecuniary considerations.

ROBERTS BROS. have in preparation "An Inland Voyage," by Robert Louis Stevenson, who wrote the "Travels with a Donkey" and "New Arabian Nights;" "Seven Spanish Cities," a new book by Rev. E. E. Hale, describing his journey through Spain in 1882; a new edition of the same author's "Ten Times One is Ten," considerably enlarged, and to which is added a sketch of Harry Wadsworth and a history of Wadsworth Clubs; and a new volume in their No Name series, "Princess Amelie," dealing with French characters and scenery. A book of peculiar interest almost ready for publication is "Sinners and Saints," by Mr. Philip Robinson, author of "Under the Sun," in which he tells an entertaining story of a tour across the States and around them, including three months among the Mormons. The author resided at the house of a Mormon elder and gave much time to the study of the life, manners, and institutions of Mormonism, which he judges in a fair manner, and about which he corrects many generally received opinions. He has found so much favor during his sojourn with the "Saints," that the Mormon Church has ordered a large edition of the book for circulation among its members. It is destined to attract much attention.

D. LOTHROP & CO. have just ready "Little Brown Top and the People Under it," a boy's story by Rev. Edward A. Rand; "The Imagination and other Essays," by Geo. Macdonald, with an introduction by A. P. Peabody, D.D.; and "The Lord's Day, Rescued," by Alexander Sessions, with an introduction by the Rev. Henry M. Dexter. They announce as in preparation "Cambridge Sermons," by Dr. Alex. McKenzie, of Harvard, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Cambridge; "Evidences of Christianity," by the late Dr. Jacob M. Manning, of the Old South Church, Boston; a new edition of "Truths and Half-Truths," by the same author;

"Hand-Book of Mexico," a guide to the resources of the country by Leonidas Hamilton; "A Family Flight in Spain," by the Rev. Edward Everett and Miss Susan Hale; and the third volume of their Magna Charta series, entitled "Door-Yard Folks," by Amanda B. Harris. The "History of the American People," on which Arthur Gilman has been at work for two years, will be a unique work in that it does not contain a single battle picture, but will chronicle the victories of peace rather than those of war, in its descriptions of the nation's progress in the arts, sciences, education, etc. The volume, which may be expected in July, will be fully illustrated. The Messrs. Lothrop have made arrangements with George Macdonald for the publication of his new story, "Donald Grant." The work is now being issued serially in an English magazine. It will be published in book-form in this country about three months before its completion in England.

THE title of Marshal Bazaine's book, published by Gaspar, of Madrid, is "Episodes de la Guerre de 1870 et le Blocus de Metz."

CASELL, PETTER, GALPIN & CO., in view of the forthcoming Fisheries Exhibition, have arranged to publish a new work entitled "The Fisheries of the World."

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH & CO. have just issued a translation of Lieut.-Col. Hermann Vogt's "Egyptian War of 1882." The work is said to be valuable for the reason that it reflects the military public opinions of the largest and most highly trained army of modern Europe.

THE fourth volume of the "Correspondence of George Sand," just published in Paris, covers the period from 1854 to 1864, and contains letters to Jules Janin, Paul de Saint-Victor, Armand Barbès, Gustave Flaubert, and (among living men) MM. Emile Augier, Alexandre Dumas fils, Auguste Vacquerie, Edmond About, Octave Feuillet, and others.

MR. NICHOLAS TRÜBNER has been appointed by the King of Siam, member of the Fourth Class, called Bhusanabhorn, or Officer of the Most Exalted Order of the White Elephant. Mr. Trübner has been thus honored because of his zeal in the publication of Pali-Buddhist literature, the King of Siam being the supreme spiritual head of the Buddhist religion.

THE valuable series of Prefaces written by the late Prof. J. S. Brewer to the Calendars of State Papers of the reign of Henry VIII. are to be collected and published separately. They will form two volumes, edited and revised by Mr. James Gairdner, who, it will be recollected, was also the editor of Brewer's posthumous volume of "English Studies."

IN the great fire in Paternoster Square, Messrs. Kegan Paul, Trench & Co. have lost, we learn from the Athenaeum, the whole of their bound stock, a few mss., some valuable sketches, and various wood-blocks. Fortunately a large portion of the mss. for forthcoming books was already in the printer's hands, and the bound stock was not nearly so extensive as it would have been at a later period of the year. They at once moved into temporary premises in White Hart Street, leading into Paternoster Square, and are actively engaged in the work of reorganizing their business.

THE BOOK-BUYER and THE BOOK-MAKER

Are brought together by the book-seller. Such at least should be the function which that worthy performs. And such it was in the olden time. He was the intelligent guide to book-buyers, and the friend of book-makers. And he certainly cannot be the enemy of the book-maker to-day, for it is in diffusing his wares that he makes a living. But the modern book-seller has ceased to be such an index rerum, or living catalogue, as was the old-time book-seller. We suppose there are on an average a couple of dozen new books of all sorts published every week. And yet the mourners are in the streets bewailing the departure of the old-time book-seller, who could tell them everything his wares contained. A modern business man cannot keep up with all the new issues, nor spend his time in retailing their abstracted and concentrated information for the edification of the public. He can tell you what sells.

But because the book-seller cannot read all the books that should be on his shelves, and make abstracts for the benefit of his customers, he must have the books themselves for the inspection of the public if he aims at something more than becoming a mere middleman or agent for the publisher. It is one of the necessities of his profession which he can avoid only by sinking that profession to the level of a commission merchant. As the farmer needs his implements, the mechanic his tools, and the lawyer his library, the book-seller must keep a stock of salable books to sell, or go out of the business.

Now, book-sellers have for some time been exercised in selecting their stock. They can't carry everything, and it requires a fine discrimination and good judgment to select just what will leave their shelves quickly and turn their money. There are certain books which it is always profitable to carry, but a man can't forever look around; he must begin to do. Many book-sellers have begun—and they congratulate themselves on it now—by ordering from our catalogue. Of course we don't publish all the books a book-seller needs to keep; but we have a good many that he wants. And those seem to be just the thing when others prove dead stock. Why? Because not being particularly stylish, they never go out of style; not making any special pretence to be fashionable, they never remain on the shelf when the fashion changes. They are very attractive, respectable, thoroughgoing, practical, always in demand, and, like your decently dressed, common-sense, practical man, never at a discount.

Our line of Bibles includes the very best in three languages. Our English Family Bibles, with the Revised New Testament, stand without a peer; and of them Brown's Explanatory stands at the head. This is a Protestant Bible. The English Catholic Bibles, in addition to their other valuable features, contain the Life of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and are the most complete Catholic Bibles published.

Our German Family Bible, Protestant, is Luther's own translation, finely and profusely illustrated, with notes by the great Commentator, OTTO DELITSCH. Our Catholic German Bible is the only authorized version, and the one always sought after in this country.

Our Spanish Catholic Bible is the finest ever published.

Our Teachers' Bibles contain invaluable matter not found in either the Oxford or Bagster Bibles. And there are several editions of smaller Bibles, handy volumes for daily use.

Our Miscellaneous Stock includes standard works on Biography, History, Travel, and Adventure, Poetry, Religion, Fiction, Humorous Works, Medical Works, Agricultural Works, Practical Works, etc., etc.

Our Text-Books include the following:

An Introduction to the Study of English Literature and Literary Criticism. By Prof. JAMES BALDWIN. 2 vols., octavo.
French Syntax. By Prof. JAMES A. HARRISON, Washington and Lee University. 1 vol., 12mo.
The Artist and his Mission. By Rev. WM. M. REILLY, Ph.D., Palatine College. 1 vol., 12mo.

A LITERARY COMPANION FOR THE SEASON.

PUBLISHED BY

[The remainder of this space is occupied by the retailer's imprint. For terms see advertising page.]

SEASON OF 1883.

TO RETAIL DEALERS:

The Summer Catalogue, issued now for six years, has been found so useful and profitable by enterprising dealers, that it has become a regular feature of the trade. The seventh issue, in a special pamphlet adapted for imprint circulation all through the summer, will be published in connection with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, early in June.

The imprint editions will contain, in addition to a catalogue of guide-books and light literature for summer reading, an entirely new selection of reading matter both of a practical and entertaining character, chiefly intended for the use and amusement of tourists, pleasure-seekers, and visitors of summer resorts.

Booksellers should remember that, while summer is usually a dull time, the sales of light literature, etc., can be pushed to make a successful business even in this season. The classes who travel are of course those who have money to spend, even in dull times, and the summer is the time when very many bookbuyers do the greater part of their reading. Booksellers at or near summer resorts should therefore especially avail themselves of this publication, while city dealers should remember that it will be also useful to tempt stay-at-homes to make investments or to follow up customers otherwise out of reach.

Orders for imprint editions at subscription rates should be sent in at once.

F. LEYPOLDT,

P. O. Box 943

31 AND 32 PARK ROW, NEW YORK.

Through One Administration.

By Mrs. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

This very celebrated story of society in Washington—probably the most careful, artistic, and interesting study of this important phase of American life—was first printed in the Century Magazine, and awakened a very general and intense interest. It is a thorough exposition of the peculiar features of the Republican court-circles—the venal and the honest Senators, the land-speculators, the woman lobbyist, the army officers on detached service—prepared by one of the foremost novelists of the world, who has received a special qualification for the work by a residence of several years' duration in Washington. Some of the scenes of this dramatic story are of inimitable power and pathos, and move the reader's deepest emotions. The novel has been carefully revised since its serial publication.

The Real Lord Byron.

New Views of the Poet's Life.

By JOHN CORDY JEAFFRESON. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

A new and most thorough study of the facts of the great poet's career, in which many long existing misapprehensions are corrected, and many hitherto-ignored incidents are brought to light, and set in their proper relations to the fruits of Byron's life. The fictions which have been industriously propagated by his biographers are laid bare, and testimony is introduced from unimpeachable sources, including many contemporary letters not hitherto published, to show how astounding have been the misrepresentations and misconceptions now current about the author of "Childe Harold." The sensation caused by this book will extend to both sides of the Atlantic.

A Walk in Hellas;

Or, The Old in the New.

By DENTON J. SNIDER. 1 vol., 8vo, $2.50.

An account of a tour on foot, through the cities, villages, and rural districts of the kingdom of Greece, in the year 1879, by an enthusiastic and eloquent classic scholar, who has made a very charming and beautifully-written mosaic of modern Greek life and customs, and the memories and remains of the ancient heroes of Athens and Sparta, Parnassus, Marathon, and the venerable Hellenic temples and oracles. These chapters were first read and very favorably received before the Concord School of Philosophy; and afterward printed privately at St. Louis in a small edition. The extensive demand for the book, which is greatly desired by all who find attraction in travels in remote yet famous and deeply interesting regions, as well as by every one who feels a charm in reading of the ancient culture and civilization of Greece, has given reason for the preparation of the present edition.

Mary Magdalene.

A Poem. By Mrs. RICHARD GREENOUGH. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

This wonderful Poem, by a well-known American writer, was received with great enthusiasm in the highest Roman and English circles. The first American edition has long been out of print, and the present edition is issued in answer to a large demand.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & CO., BOSTON.
